Optical controls: swipe at walls in an attempt to get the ball to the upper left or right side of the play area. When the ball reaches the left or right end wall, it bounces back towards you. Note: swiping in an effort to increase the trajectory of the ball is rarely helpful but can be entertaining. Your shot will either hit a target at the top of the screen (this happens on the first 5 levels only) or the huge open goal at the bottom. You are also rewarded for breaking a defensive wall of the opposing players. Game "Swipecart" Controls: Swipecart is controlled exclusively using your device's on-screen touch interface. Scrubbing upwards from the left side to the right during play can be used to increase the ball's velocity, as long as the ball is also pointed in that direction. Note: your reward for breaking defensive walls of the opposing player is very small and may not be worth it. Tiltulator Swipecart uses very simple mechanics to achieve some pretty enjoyable strategy. The game is tough but fair and can be enjoyed by players of any skill level. If you've ever played Super Hexagon before, you'll have no problem understanding the game. The goal is simple, just tap the bottom of the screen to swing the ball back and forth through the goals. Your only goal is to make it through the entire map as fast as you can. This requires precise timing, both in terms of swinging the ball as it falls and in the timing of your swipes to cut off red-colored goal areas. If you want to achieve some speed on the ball, cut off goal areas as they appear in short bursts and in some cases, even turn off the aiming line when your timing is just right. Depending on your play style, you can even reduce the amount of time you spend aiming by slightly lifting the phone as you hit the ball. Just like Super Hexagon, there's no way to get a perfect game, but hitting a plateau and knowing when to call it quits for the day will help you improve.

ParadiseReplay This game was a lot of fun and the controls are easy to master. If you got good at it then you can try this game.

Indie Game Designer From idea to prototype (and WIP) to working game As early as 2013, I was considering that I wanted to make a game that involved two similar balls. At the time, I was playing Super Hexagon and I thought I could do better than

- Rolly's Haunted Museum With a thrilling rollercoaster ride of arcade games and flashing lights, Rolly's Haunted Museum is surely one of the most intriguing booby trap attractions of its kind in the U.S. Rock Canyon Park, Lake Forest, Illinois, features countless games, many about such scary topics as ghosts, dragons, and wild animal attacks. We were able to speak with one of the game operators, Jerry Rollert, about this greatly beloved attraction. So, first of all, how did it all get started? Well, the idea of Rolly's Haunted Museum came up while I was running my family's theme park together with my cousin Henry, who is the well-known animator and producer, Daryl Roth. At the time, we had operated Lost Kingdom, a haunted house for over 30 years. Then it became like a dream a few years later. Henry called, asking if I had a crazy idea. If there was a kind of arcade you wanted to be part of, and it would be fun and challenging. I said yes, and we started to explore possibilities and the idea of what a haunted attraction would be. So, as I told you, we started with our haunted house. Then it grew to this. If you enter, you're shot out of a cannon and the car starts to whirl around. It's like you're at the edge of the atmosphere—it goes straight up and down and sideways all at the same time. Then, with sound effects, it says, "Scream or be scared!" and you're supposed to be screaming. In the little booth, you get punished with "Scream!" sounds for a few seconds. Well, exactly. We were only having fun making haunted houses, and then after we closed for a few years, we thought, "What if we made this place haunted?" We even pulled out a few of the games, and four years later were involved in this venture. Have you ever been approached by a kid and asked if you're giving someone electrocution? Well, we have. I went behind the scenes and looked at where the kid is. And then I said, "Boom, you're dead." We call these hearts, they serve as a deterrent. For instance, you might beat and beat and beat, and it just won't work, or you might beat out these hearts, and it works. Other things.

Space Shooters is a free-to-play tower defense/shooter hybrid game which takes place in a fully destructible environment, with the player's objective being to build strongholds which can fend off enemy spawners as they try to invade the world. Besides levelling up, earning new weapons, characters and making friends with other players in the game, the player has the unique opportunity to dismantle and rebuild the world using their newly found powers to create their very own infinite battlegrounds, each with its own unique set of traps and obstacles for the players to traverse. Space Shooters can be played with friends online, and splitscreen is supported in local play. Tuesday, January 10, 2013 New Game Released - Space Shooters! We are proud to announce the release of our latest game! Space Shooters is a new multiplayer shooter that exists in a fully destructible environment. Build yourself a space station and battle against your friends for your spot on the leaderboard. A huge congratulations goes out to everyone that has joined our waitlist! About This Game Space Shooters is a free-to-play online multiplayer shooter game which takes place in a fully destructible environment, with the player's objective being to build strongholds which can fend off enemy spawners as they try to invade the world. Each player begins the game in a small blob of space, with the objective being to destroy the spawners that are trying to invade the galaxy. The players of this game can take on the role of a space pirate, a fighter or a builder. These different classes each have their own distinct weaponry, abilities and movement. Each weapon and character has a range of different resources that it needs to be used, and they will be given automatically to the player's chosen class in the beginning of the game. The spawners that are invading the galaxy spawn one of three different weapons based on their specific difficulty. Red, orange and yellow will be given to each player in the beginning of the match. As the match goes on more and more spawners and their weapons will be added to the level until there is a mix of spawners and weapons and the game has reached its climax! While the game is set in outer space there is no gravity. This gives a lot of creative freedom to the players as they can build towers of their own designs. Towers can be made to grant bonuses to certain classes. They can be used for defence, used as
