significant number of these trips the lorries we use are old, tired and under-used. A new independent commission led by Norman Baker MP into the transport network and the impact of new building work is due to report on Monday, with much of its work centring on the need for greener, more sustainable and efficient solutions to Britain's over-reliance on fossil fuel-powered lorries. In addition to its call for all lorries to be electric or powered by hydrogen by 2035, it is also set to call for a ban on the use of lorries over 12 years old and for high-capacity vans to be banned from the road by 2030. The plans for electrification 6d1f23a050
